WHAT'S NEW AT WESLEYAN

The ginkgo trees are golden and autumn has come to Wesleyan, spicy, pungent, urging: This is the time to work, to produce.

So much is new and burgeoning at Wesleyan, says President W. Earl Strickland, smiling as he looks at the new dormitory, built and furnished in 1963, and at all the other signs of progress.

"I am a realistic optimist", he says.

Prospects for the new year are particularly rosy, he feels, with the Board of Trustees, spurred by its new chairman, Reginald Trice, pledging themselves to new goals for the college. Included is the raising of a million dollars, half of which will be used to double the capacity of Candler Memorial Library.

WE GROW AND MATURE

Three new trustees now serve on our Board. They are William P. Simmons, president of Southern Crate and Veneer Co., of Macon, and Tom E. Greene, Jr., president of the First National Bank and Trust Co., of Macon, both civic leaders; also the Rev. Gordon G. Thomas, of the Atlanta-Emory District.

Enrollment has increased five per cent, to 593 students from twenty-two states. Eight are from foreign countries, twenty-one are young matrons among our 55 day students. Georgia sent 341, Florida 144. The Golden Heart Freshman Class, says our president, rated 25 per cent higher in its college boards than last year, and brightest students are being grouped for accelerated programs. Twenty-one freshmen are daughters of alumnae, thirteen are granddaughters and thirty-two are nieces.

"The new Parents' organization is a great asset", says Dr. Strickland. "This group has been extremely active since it was organized last March. We are grateful for their enthusiastic leadership and their fine plans to help in Wesleyan's development.

"With its great past, and with all its friends, Wesleyan looks to an even greater future", says her president. "Without a vision of greatness there is no education", he quoted at a first meeting of faculty. With new members, faculty and staff total 112, six more than last year. "We aim toward responsible maturity and dedicated scholarship. We are committed to freedom for learning, living, and growing. Our faculty exists to serve students, for the educational enrichment of their lives."

LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE

At Trustees' meeting October 31 Dr. Strickland reported that many significant achievements in fund-raising have already been made in one year through the efforts of Wesleyan's new Vice President for Development, Weyman C. Huckabee. With vigor and intelligence Mr. Huckabee has approached old and prospective friends of the college, including foundations, parents of students, and alumnae. A major and fruitful effort has been in the area of wills and bequests. Alumnae giving has reached new heights, with two of our most beloved alumnae subscribing generously to the Kennedy-Sinclair program.

"The conclusion is inescapable", said Dr. Strickland, "that if Wesleyan is to reach and to maintain the standards of excellence which can assure it of a significant role in higher

NEW TRUSTEE HEAD MAN OF FAITH, VISION, COURAGE

A long-time friend and neighbor of Wesleyan, Reginald Trice, was elected Chairman of the Board of Trustees in May. He succeeds Leo B. Huckabee, who guided the college through a long period of progress.

From intimate association Mr. Trice has come to know and appreciate Wesleyan. In 1953 he and his wife, Frankie, moved to Rivoli to live just beyond the then-new campus. Sunday mornings they gave college girls a lift to church, brought them home to dinner. Afternoons they walked around the college lake, taking pictures, still his chief hobby. Their daughters, Regina and Fabia, were chosen class mascots, later studied music at Wesleyan. Reg and Frankie made a congenial foursome on the campus golf course with the President and his wife. Faculty and students enjoyed the Trice swimming pool; the guest house, their gracious hospitality.

REGINALD TRICE, AT HIS

As a trustee he helped Wesleyan through sore trials, standing firm on his convictions, and adding financial backing by putting the college in the regular monthly budget of his company.

This autumn a major gift from the new chairman of the board initiated the college effort to secure half a million dollars from its Trustees, to further its Ten-Year Development Program.

HOW TO SUCCEED

The career of this boy-wonder in business is an Alger story. On the family farm near Thomaston, Georgia young Reg raised calves for market, and worked as a salesman on week-ends and holidays.

"I always had some money in my pockets", he chuckles.

Soon he had enough to buy a school bus, which he operated. When the Depression precluded college he went to work in a drug store. One day a customer offered him a job as a bookkeeper in his textile mill.

And so began the rise of this dynamic, friendly gentleman. Enthusiasm, hard work, and astuteness carried him into oil, insurance, banking, and real estate.

Former president of TriceOil, also of Southern Life, he presently is chairman of the Board of Piedmont Southern Life Insurance Company, of Atlanta, and of Land Developers, Inc., of Macon, creators of Devonwood. He also serves as director and chairman of the trust committee of the First National Bank and Trust Company, Macon. This year he became a director of Southern Bell Telephone Company. He has been appointed chairman of the Georgia State Highway Board by Gov. Carl Sanders, whose Bibb County campaign he managed.

HIS CREDO

"I believe in hard work and study", says Reginald Trice.

His ascent in business was aided by courses at Mercer University, Harvard Business School, and Southern Methodist, with long hours of home study.

"I believe in the power of prayer."

He is past chairman of the board of stewards of Mulberry Street Methodist church, where he has also served as superintendent of the church school.

"I have a deep and abiding faith in the future of our country and of Wesleyan College. We must drive forward in the traditional spirit of our pioneers, with enthusiasm and optimism. Our campus, our buildings are magnificent; so are our human assets—our students, our faculty, our trustees, our alumnae and other friends. Why shouldn't we be happy when we have so many blessings?"

Wesleyan, it has been said, is "Trice blessed."

ANOTHER LOOK AT "DR. GIN"

NEW CONTINUING EDUCATION PLAN

This fall Wesleyan adds new dimensions to its educational structure by offering a non-credit course in Shakespeare, a first step, it is hoped, in making available the college faculty, facilities, and philosophy to alumnae and others who would continue their education.

Inspired by the success of College-for-a-Day, at the Alumnae Houseparty last May, when Dr. G. W. Gignilliat, Jr., lectured on Shakespeare's tragedies, this course offers another look at four of the tragedies. It also gives another look at beloved "Dr. Gin", who just retired as Cobb Alumnae Professor of English.

The course began October 1, in Taylor amphitheatre, to run for eight successive Tuesday evenings with duplicate lectures Wednesday mornings. Enthusiastic large groups are attending both sessions from Macon and environs, including Robins Air Force Base. Promotion was handled by an alumnae committee, headed by Kathryn (Terry) Groover, '44.

NEW DORMITORY IS COMPLETED

To help accommodate our increased enrollment a new dormitory, completely air-conditioned, was miraculously ready for occupancy when students came back to school this fall. So beautiful it is called Fontainebleau, it houses 122 girls, with a special apartment for the House Director.

Located north of the lake and the Senior Dorm, with views of woods and water and loggia, the new building is south of Banks Hall and west of the Huckabee Infirmary. It is designed to match Banks, across the road, in red brick and marble, with the same state-ly pilasters.

Four-girls-and-a-bath suites offer comfortable living quarters; there are spacious study parlors, student kitchenettes for snacks, also ironing rooms on each floor; luggage rooms, a sun deck, and electric facilities for personal laundry in the basement. Steam heated, each room has thermostat control.

NEW DORMITORY THRILLS STUDENTS ON RETURN THIS FALL

The building was constructed in nine months. It occupies 31,688 square feet and cost a little over half a million dollars, without landscaping. It was financed through the Federal College Housing Program. W. Elliott Dunwody, Jr. was architect.

Today's magazine cover shows the main entrance, which leads to a terrazzo-floored lobby. To the left is a small public parlor, where dates meet, containing a grand piano. French provincial furnishings form a charming setting there and in the apartment of the house director, Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler.

The Trustee Building Committee included Mrs. Julian (Grace Laramore) Hightower, in charge of decorating, Mrs. Fred (Jenny Loyal) Manget, William A. Fickling, C. Baxter Jones, C. W. Farmer, and Reginald Trice.

Emphasis on teachers and on teaching is part of what's new at Wesleyan. With alumnae help the scale of faculty salaries is being raised, making it possible to secure and hold better teachers.

An outstanding artist is the new head of the Art Department. He is Stuart Copeland Van Orden, A.B. Southwestern University in Texas; M.F.A. from Cornell University.

Dr. Lawrence Edwards, whose specialty is 18th Century Literature, heads the English Department. He holds the A.B. degree from Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn., and the M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Tennessee. He comes to us from Tennessee Wesleyan, where he was chairman of Humanities.

Dr. Walter A. Bishop, already a faculty member, is serving as acting chairman of Foreign Languages.

Our own Betty Brender, '57, one of KPC's "dear girls", has been named Librarian to replace Mrs. Ruth Young. She received her Masters' in Librarianship from Emory University, and worked at the Greensboro Public Library prior to joining the staff of our Candler Memorial Library five years ago.

NEW PARENTS ORGANIZATION

There's never a time in a man's life when he is more interested in college than when his daughter is attending it. A piece of him is there, too."

These are the sentiments of B. G. Smith, of Tampa, Florida, whose daughter, Sharon, is a Junior at Wesleyan. Mr. Smith is president of the Parents of Wesleyan, formed last March at Parent's Day, which was co-sponsored by the college and the alumnae. It embraces automatically all parents and guardians of Wesleyan students.

According to Weyman C. Huckabee, vice president of the college and "foster father" to the new organization, it fills a long felt need for communication between parents and administration. Its stated aim is to overcome the barrier of distances, to improve knowledge of the college and its activities, and to help in Wesleyan's future development.

Besides President Smith its officers are George W. Martin, Jacksonville, vice president; Mrs. Louisa Shoemaker, St. Petersburg, secretary; J. Derry Burns, Macon, treasurer; and Walter S. Monteith, Columbia, S. C., chairman of the finance committee.

MUCH WORK DONE

A vigorous Executive Council of 35 has stimulated interest in a large group of parents, and already much has been accomplished. Late in summer they published a booklet, a roster of new students with their pictures.

Group meetings and parties for new, old, and prospective students are being held by members of the Council. Mr. and Mrs. Martin gave a reception on September 7 at the San Jose Country Club in Jacksonville, which was attended by President Strickland, local trustees of the college, and Miss Doris Manning, North Florida Field Representative. The T. R. Laseters assisted. Other parties were given in Tampa, Orlando, Albany, and Columbia. In Moultrie Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Clinton entertained a large group in their home. Present were Messrs. Smith and Monteith, Dr. Strickland, and Georgia Field Representative, Charlotte Thomas.

ALUMNAE TO HELP

Plans are afoot for parents and alumnae to work together in recruiting students, and in other areas.

"We want to see Wesleyan go ahead", said one mother, "to provide our daughter and other daughters with the best possible education."

Another mother, Mrs. Helen Snow, wrote, from Rye, N.Y.: "How very lovely everything is at Wesleyan—not a degree of mediocrity on the campus. My daughter is so privileged to be connected with all you fine people."

The Council met on September 17 to map out plans for the winter. Alumnae Council meeting on January 15 will feature this new and valuable adjunct to Wesleyan.

education in the future, tremendous sums of money will be needed."

LIBRARY REWIRED

Workmen were busy on campus all summer, painting, repairing, modernizing, reports Dr. Strickland. The outdated hand-set clocks of 1928 were replaced by a new master control system which synchronizes its sixty-two wall clocks and five corridor clocks every fifty-eight minutes. Should electric power go off the master clock carries on.

A new look was given the Candler Memorial Library with repainting and redecorating. The entire building was rewired and relighted, with new transformers, offering greatly improved studying conditions. New electric cables, at a cost of $15,000, were run to the library, strong enough to light the projected addition.

New life has been added to the priceless antique treasures of Olive Swann Porter parlor. Paintings were cleaned, fine china mended, furniture restored, all made possible through a Trust Fund from the late James Hyde Porter and administered by the First National Bank.

NEW HOMES FOUND

A more convenient new home for the Book and Sundries Store, in the air-conditioned Student Center, near the Post Office, made room for two badly needed new class rooms on the lower level of Tate Hall. Located there also is a duplicating-mailing room.

With six additional teachers on our staff, new faculty offices were carved out of the old President's apartment. The Admissions Office was spruced up; Dean of Women Mary Lawter moved to a charming college house on Tucker Road. And a new sanctum was provided for your new ALUMNAE MAGAZINE Editor, across the hall in Tate from the Alumnae Office.

NEW N-CATE CREDIT

Wesleyan's training program was recently given full accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (N-CATE), making ours one of the first small, liberal arts colleges to be so approved. This merit, granted for a ten-year period, the longest possible, was based on all programs for the preparation of teachers at Wesleyan. Wesleyan students participating in teacher education programs will now be certified to teach in 28 states sharing this arrangement. This fall thirty-seven are practice-teaching in Macon and Atlanta areas.

RING IN THE NEW

Heralding the new school year bells are ringing on campus. The clock and chimes, presented to Wesleyan in 1949 by the late Freeman Hart in memory of his daughter, Elsie Hart Jones, '26, and in honor of his wife, Elsie Gibson Hart, were removed from the tower of Old Wesleyan before the fire.

Through a gift from the graduating class of '63, now our newest alumnae, the twenty-five bell carillon was reconditioned and installed in the balcony of Porter Family Memorial Auditorium. Every hour their cheerful sound delights the campus and neighbors for miles around; already they anticipate holiday music.

AND A NEW BABY!

President and Mrs. Strickland became grandparents on United Nations Day, October 24, when their daughter Patricia, Mrs. Arthur J. Otwell, gave birth to a son, Arthur David, in Atlanta.

NEW SPIRIT OF HOPE AT HOUSEPARTY

A new spirit of Wesleyan, a surge of regenerated hope swelled the hearts of those gathered for the Alumnae Houseparty last May.

"Isn't it exciting!" one after another Old Girl exclaimed on viewing the new dorm rising across from Banks Hall, on hearing the progress of Wesleyan's ten-year expansion plan, on learning of new heights of alumnae giving, of the proposed library addition, of the emphasis on teaching and better pay for teachers.

Nostalgic smiles flitted across many faces, at registration, when bricks from the original College on the Hill were presented as souvenirs. The fire which consumed beloved Old Wesleyan seemed to have carried away with it the heavy load of yearning and frustration.

"Our rich history and heritage could never be incinerated", said one older alumna, squaring her shoulders. "We'll build on them."

"Like the Phoenix-bird of old", said her companion.

COLLEGE FOR A DAY

From many states and from dozens of towns in Georgia Wesleyannes trekked back to the campus on Friday of Alumnae week-end to go to school.

They listened in the morning to "Dr. Gin"—Dr. G. W. Gignilliat, Jr., retiring as head of the English department after 33 years—as he discussed Shakespeare's tragedies. They sat shoulder to shoulder in the classrooms, just as in college days, exemplifying Polonius' words in "Hamlet": "The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

After lunch in the Anderson Dining Hall they went back to the recital hall of Porter

Memorial Building for a lecture by Dr. B. C. Murdock, professor of psychology and director of testing. Finally, the modern revival of printmaking in America was demonstrated by Robert Malone, assistant professor of art, with students inking and printing plates of various materials.

No credit, no exam . . . alumnae felt exhilarated and stimulated to continue their education. College for a day was a huge success. Nell Sams, chairman, is already planning next year's.

APPLES FOR THE TEACHER

A day of stimulating teaching brought honor—and apples—for teachers. Tables at Candlelight Dinner held baskets of apples with polished red apples at each place. Retired faculty and Gold and Silver anniversary alumnae were special guests.

OLDEST ALUMNA SHINES

At Magnolia Hill, where President and Mrs. Strickland held open house after dinner.

Wesleyan's oldest living alumna, Lilla Everett Flournoy, of Ft. Valley, '84, captured the limelight and everyone's heart. Orchid on shoulder she held court in the drawing room.

"I'm so proud of Wesleyan; everything is so nice", she said, bright as a bird.

Hers is a dower interest in Wesleyan. Her grandfather, James A. Everett, had been a benefactor of the college in its early days. After graduation she married J. A. Flournoy. They were first settlers at Rivoli, on the spreading acres which today are Wesleyan campus.

When son Everette came home from World War I they sold the property to Wesleyan, making a generous contribution to the purchase.

ALUMNAE DAY THRILLING

Saturday, first day of June, a brilliant sun shown. Seniors and alumnae candlelighters marched together, sat together for the moving Benson Pledge of induction, ate lunch together after.

In his address, "An Old College with a New Vision", Dr. Myron Wicke, of Nashville, Tenn., nationally known educator and author, stated that the purpose of a college is to bring together teachers and students in a society pregnant with possibilities.

"Place good students next to good teachers and something tremendous happens. Teachers of quality and dedication must be brought together with the next generation."

Wesleyan, having a special mission, needs special sponsors, he said, commending new and old alumnae for their good will, their sacrificial giving.

Florence (Sitton) Gautier, general House-party chairman, her committee, Florence Jones, our able executive secretary, and staff smiled happily as alumnae departed after a wonderful time at Wesleyan. Some stayed through Commencement to hear addresses by Dr. G. Paul Butler, New York editor, and Dr. Ralph Sockman.

NEW HOPE FOR WORLD PEACE

One of the really great men of America, perhaps our greatest preacher, as well as a distinguished author, Dr. Ralph Sockman, brought a message of hope for the future of the world when he spoke on the Wesleyan campus at commencement.

Alumnae and all who heard him were lifted up to a new awareness, a new approach to life in this atomic age. Realistically facing the tensions and conflicts of modern life, he declared from the depths of his faith, "I believe that God is a creator; He made man in His own image, therefore man is a creator, and God and man are still going on creating together. If we get properly attuned to Him He can do new things with us tomorrow He could not do yesterday."

Quoting Playwright Robert E. Sherwood, he declared, "Unless we can stop the armament race before 1980, we might as well write finis to the future. But I express the belief, the faith, that before 1980 the threat of a Third World War will be a malodorous memory. I can provide no reasons for my optimism, no facts, figures, blueprints, no statistics—I can say only that my confidence in the future is founded on the fact that I believe in God."

REAL VALUES FIREPROOF

In this day, when atomic fission could blow up the foundation of the earth, Dr. Sockman is convinced that God would not allow man to get at the matchbox of this universe if He had not known the framework of it was fireproof. Ultimate values, he said—beauty, truth, goodness—are really fireproof.

"With all the changes of nuclear power and space travel, nothing has really changed the goals of personal living. In the 'Searching Sixties' we are looking for the meaning of life. A college with Wesleyan's noble tradition creates a mental climate, seeks to provide a philosophy of life, a clarification and direction of the goals. This gives me hope in the current cold war.

"I devoutly believe we have a sounder philosophy of life than Russia. Ours, though we have not lived up to it completely, is derived from our great Judaeo-Christian tradition. We have certain rights that are inalienable because they are derived from God and not the government. We have certain ideas of right; they depend on eternal principles."

THE ROAD AHEAD

Graduates of a college like ours, said Dr. Sockman, are needed as leaders in their own communities.

"No home is really safe or good unless it is involved with the community life. The spirit of community is our best defense against Communism."

He spoke of increased leisure time and the expanding field of adult education, of the need for moral and spiritual direction.

"So many people are ignorant of God, and so many more just ignore God. Think of the opportunities when we set out to explore the possibilities of the human spirit."

We must build roads that all nations, all races can travel.

There is surely a road ahead, averred Dr. Sockman. There are new dimensions of living; we can plan larger tomorrows.

"You cannot stop truth", he said. "Science pursues truth and goodness. You cannot stop beauty. All the efforts on the fine arts for which this college is so famous—this is a foundation that you cannot destroy.

"The things we meet outside of us in this nuclear age are not as great as things inside us. There is something in the human being—call it conscience, mind, spirit—that is greater than anything outside of us.

"And Wesleyan College has historically been concerned with training what's inside our minds; with the kind of tradition you have maintained I think you can go on with confidence that the powers in us can triumph over the destructive powers around us."

ROLE OF ALUMNAE TODAY

AN EDITORIAL

And now,—what's new with alumnae?

Perhaps it is the growing awareness of our responsibility toward the making of the history of our time.

As thoughtful alumnae look at our world we wonder about our own role. What are we contributing in a tangible way to the goals toward which we all yearn?

Outmoded is the idea that a woman, particularly a college alumna, has to choose between being a homemaker and being involved in local and world affairs. She can be more effective in each of these spheres if her vision is broad enough for both. In these dangerous days she dare not sit on the sidelines, on the fringe, and watch, as did the Trojan women.

WE MUST BE INVOLVED

We must be involved in the great issues of our times. For this role we were educated.

The education of women today is focussed not on themselves but on the world. Women have become more concerned about humanity in the whole and its survival.

To adapt ourselves to a completely changed universe, we will try to become thoroughly informed about it; we will think more deeply about it; our attitudes will become more flexible. We shall see more clearly the difference between prejudices and convictions.

To focus on the world we must constantly add to our store of knowledge, keeping abreast of continuous change and adjustment. We must learn languages, peruse maps, take courses of study. We must read books and periodicals, listen to broadcasts for background and current developments in world affairs. We must talk with foreigners in our communities, with people who have traveled or worked in international fields. We must join discussion groups, think creatively, come to carefully considered decisions, then make ours known—to our President, our Secretary of State, our Senators and Representatives, our Ambassador to the United Nations.

Since modern war is an extravagance we cannot afford we must involve ourselves in efforts to promote understanding between nations.

WE MUST FACE ISSUES

We might examine our knowledge and attitudes concerning the United Nations. Compare the ideals, as expressed in the charter of the UN with those of our own country. Read the list of UN actions which have prevented wars during the past eighteen years of its existence. Become informed, so that you are prepared to answer destructive criticisms made out of ignorance. Try to imagine a world without a United Nations, imperfect though it may be, as a meeting place and forum for nations. Consider the potential development of the UN and decide whether or not you want to help it achieve this potential. If we did not have a UN would we not need to create it?

There are issues such as the battle against communism, the race question, immorality in our affluent society which demand our involvement in our communities and throughout our land. We could well take our cue from members of our student YWCA, our alumnae of tomorrow, who are promoting a study on campus of peace, sex, and, race. They do not hesitate to meet important issues head-on.

If you believe, as Dr. Sockman put it, that there is hope for the road ahead, do something about it—help to make the history of our times!

One of our youngest alumnae, Gayle Hamilton, '63, has enlisted in the Peace Corps, stationed inside Africa. She has found her way of being involved. What is your way?

1963 ALUMNAE AWARDS

IRENE SEWELL HOBBY AB 1922

Distinguished Service to Wesleyan

Never has an honor been desired by so many for so long as has this award for service presented to Irene (Sewell) Hobby. And never has an award evoked so much genuine, sincere approval from thousands of alumnae who appreciate Irene's vision, courage, determination and unstinting devotion.

From her Freshman year, her laurels increased, culminating in the highest honor the alumnae and the college can bestow—election to the Board of Trustees. In 1922, she was president of the Wesleyan YWCA and later, vice-president and member of the board of Directors of the Atlanta YWCA. Her participation in the spiritual life of the college led her to active service in her church, the Druid Hills Methodist, where she became president of the W.S.C.S.

As first chairman of Group No. IV of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club, she recognized the value of friends meeting together, so aided in reorganizing Atlanta alumnae on the successful group basis and was president 1937-1939. On the national level, Irene has been secretary and then president of the Wesleyan College Alumnae Association.

In 1954-55 as first chairman of the Wesleyan College Historical Society for the preservation of Old Wesleyan as a historic shrine, Irene displayed indomitable courage and determination. When others abandoned all hope, Irene sustained her faith, inspired her colleagues and worked indefatigably until searing flames destroyed one of the world's landmarks.

A marker dedicated by the Governor of the State in 1957, proclaiming that Wesleyan was the first chartered college for women in the world, which she unveiled, is in the hearts of alumnae, a dedication to the hard work and high hopes of Irene Sewell Hobby.

Aside from Wesleyan, Irene has held many positions of honor and trust in her community. Her executive ability, quickly recognized, inevitably leads to the presidential chair. Proof, she has been president of the Woman's Auxiliary to both the Fulton County Medical Society and the Medical Association of Georgia. Too numerous to list are the many committee responsibilities she has carried in various organizations.

Irene's service to Wesleyan and other groups could not have been accomplished without the unselfish cooperation and backing of her family. Her husband, Dr. A. Worth Hobby, and son, both physicians, contributed in many ways to the fulfillment of her plans. Her mother, now in her 94th year, is a source of quiet strength and inspiration.

The lovely Hobby home, with its majestic view of the famed Chattahoochee, epitomizes Southern hospitality at its charming and gracious best, with the Welcome Mat placed conspicuously on the front steps—particularly for Wesleyan friends.

HONORED ALUMNAE BRANHAM, JONES, AND HOBBY WITH CITATIONS IN HAND

CECILIA B. BRANHAM AB 1917

Distinguished Achievement

Cecelia Branham, first woman to receive a degree from Emory University, MA 1920), teacher of history in public schools and Brenau College; Dean of Brenau Academy since 1928; member of Association of University Women; director of summer camp for girls; member of Delta Kappa Gamma; member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority in the last chapter initiated at Wesleyan; given Meritorious Service Award at Centennial A D Pi convention in 1936; Star Teacher at Brenau Academy in 1963. Building on Brenau campus named in her honor, Branham Hall.

At Wesleyan, president of Student Government, 1916-1917; YWCA Cabinet, 1915-16; delegate to Blue Ridge conference, 1916; teacher's certificate, 1917.

"C. B." is the daughter of a Methodist minister and granddaughter of Elizabeth Branham, one of the first students to enroll at Wesleyan, 1836. Her ambition as a child was to be a teacher. She was an ardent suffragette, convinced there was important work for women if they could get the proper education.

She takes a group of students annually on a spring holiday to Washington or New York. Her influence with girls is far reaching; her objective is for them to take their place in the present day world.

Summers she spends in the old family home in Covington, Ga., where she hopes to spend her old age—if she ever reaches a time when she is not too busy to grow old.

SARAH JONES AB 1923

Distinguished Achievement

Sarah Jones, AB Wesleyan 1923, and graduate, Library Science degree, from Emory University, of Decatur, Ga., daughter of Madge Sharp Yeomans, graduate of 1893, has been Chief Library Consultant since 1937 in the State Department of Education for the Development of School Libraries in Georgia.

Since that year a tremendous increase in the support of school libraries service reflects the dynamic quality of the stimulation and guidance which she has given to the program.

The unique aspect of this program in Georgia developed under her guidance, is that it has been based on the widest participation of administrators, teachers, librarians, and parents.

In 1937-38 there were relatively few strong centrally organized school libraries. Today there are more than 1600 of which some 775 are elementary schools.

Sarah has shown unusual resourcefulness in coping with the shortage of trained librarians, by planning that high school librarians be employed on a year round basis to organize elementary library collections.

She has evidenced a parallel interest in developing good public library service. She joined other library leaders in requesting that the Georgia Library Commission become a division of the State Department of Education and that state aid be provided for public libraries.

Georgia's system of regional libraries is recognized as outstanding, and has been studied by many states and foreign countries. Our Miss Jones has worked hand in hand with those responsible for its development.

Through the years she has found time to participate in professional activities on the state, regional, and national level.

She has been called on to serve as work-shop consultant at Kansas State Teacher's College, Emory University, West Virginia University, (Morgantown), Woman's College of Georgia, and has taught library science courses at the University of Georgia. She has contributed articles to professional journals and periodicals.

THREE ARE NEW IN THE FIELD

All Field Representatives of Wesleyan are alumnae, for the first time. Seated in the Alumnae Office are Doris Manning, '60, of Middleburg, who serves Florida; and Charlotte Thomas, '63, working in Georgia. Standing are Mrs. John W. Boyes (Betty Jo Hammock, '48) of Hazlehurst, who serves Atlanta, and Mrs. R. M. Finch (Arlene Atkins, '56), of West Palm Beach, who began work in the Florida area last year. This foursome is supervised by Allen Sanders, Director of Admissions. Object: to find and select superior students for Wesleyan. Working with them is Mrs. John Durden (Marjorie Potts), '40, alumnae vice president, and an alumnae committee.

Article XIV requires that a proposed change, endorsed by the Board of Managers, must be sent to alumnae before it is voted on at the Annual Meeting. At its September meeting, the Board endorsed the proposal that Article X, Section 3 be amended to read that our Fiscal Year be changed to begin on August 1 and end on July 31 to coincide with the college schedule.

A LETTER FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Greetings!

As an alumna of the "Oldest and Best", you will be glad to know that Wesleyan is giving her students an even better educational experience than it gave to you. In line with this purpose, the alumnae want to help increase faculty salaries at Wesleyan! The importance of the above has recently been set forth in the "Big Apple" letter written to you by Martha Cooper, Treasurer and Director of the Loyalty Fund.

There are busy and rewarding days ahead for the alumnae. The Board of Managers met in September and made plans for the Alumnae Council meeting on January 15. The emphasis there will be twofold: (1) To promote the "apple harvest" in keeping with this year's theme, "An Apple for the Teacher"; and (2) To work closely with the Parents' organization, which has done such exciting things since its beginning last March.

June, 1964 is the time for the election of a new slate of Alumnae Association officers. Your nominations will be welcomed, and can be sent to the Chairman of the Nominating Committee, Elizabeth Loyall Woods, c/o the Alumnae Office by January 5.

Nominations for Alumnae Awards for Distinguished Achievement and Distinguished Service to the college may also be sent to the Alumnae Office by March 15.

Someone has said, "I may not live to see the ignorant millions all educated, but my work for the cause of education will make quicker the coming of God's Kingdom." Will you join in the great adventure of helping Wesleyan realize her full potential? Your fringe benefit will be your own inner satisfaction.

Sincerely,

Emily Hearn Webb

CLASS NEWS NOTES

FROM 1963 REUNION GROUPS

Of fifty years ago

News from the Golden Anniversary Class: FANNIE (HERRING) AVERA of Rocky Mount, N. C., lost her husband in 1952. He was a lawyer, bank president, and trustee of Wake Forest College. She has two children and two grandchildren.

GLADYS (OUSLEY) WOODWARD moved from New York to Elkhart, Ind., in 1935 where her husband was a chemist at Miles Laboratories. Since his retirement, they spend their winters in Florida.

TIBBA (BAKER) TAYLOR writes that she lives a lazy life in Winter Park, Fla., where she and husband, Bob, live in a co-operative apartment where all the men are retired. They spend their summers in Highlands.

KATHERINE P. CARNES received the Macon Writers' Club's 1963 award for the best story of the year. In June, Kathryn underwent successful eye surgery at the Macon Hospital.

Reunion of the Middle '40s

MAE (EASON) HALL has a baby daughter, Diana, who was born Nov. 2, 1962.

From PEG (WORLEY) STUDWELL: "We have been in India for four years, with a vacation in the United States last summer, when our sixth child was born. We now have three boys and three girls, from 16 years to one year. Sorry I couldn't be at the reunion of my class this spring."

From MARGIE (SOULIE) CHANDLER: "For the first time in our married lives, we are not living in a Methodist parsonage. Don will be teaching this year at Scarritt College in Nashville, and we are buying a home. Our new address is 1202 Davidson Road, Nashville, Tenn. My youngest son, Mark, starts school this fall. Steve, 13, and Ken, 11, will both be in junior high. I keep in close touch with several other Wesleyan women who live in Nashville: ANN (McDONALD) SMITH, 1940; ROSEMARY BROWN, 1958; and SHIRLEY FINCANNON, 1959."

From VIRGINIA ELLEN (MARTIN) LAWRENCE of Cincinnati, Ohio: "Our family have become sailing enthusiasts, sailing on one of Ohio's state lakes on weekends and Chesapeake Bay this summer. My greetings to Dr. James who was one of my history teachers at Union College in Barbourville, Kentucky, oh, so long ago." SHIRLEY (KASSNER) SULLIVAN is editor of a stimulating Book Page in the Lafource (La.) WEEKLY PRESS. Last summer she made her TV debut over Station WDSU. She has a 17-year old son, Toby.

MARY (ANDERSON) COMER and her lawyer husband, John, have returned from a trip to Europe. They have moved into the handsome Comer family residence at 2590 Vineville Avenue, Macon.

And More Reunion Girls

BLYTHE McKAY, woman's editor of the Macon Telegraph, became the first Life Member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Macon, in recognition of her cooperation with the ideals of that organization and her constant work for a cleaner and more beautiful city.

From ESTELLE (JESUP) DILLARD: "Daughter, Jane, is married to Steve Knight, the mayor of Columbus, Ga. They have three children. Dr. Dillard and I have just returned from Dallas, Texas, where we visited our son, Guy, Jr., who is a resident physician at Parkland Memorial Hospital. Like his father, he specializes in internal medicine. He is married and has one son."

From MAUDE (McGEHEE) HOGG: "We have been living in Winter Haven, Fla., for about 6 years where my husband is a building contractor. I work for the City of Winter Haven in the Water Production and Distribution Department. My son, Clyde, is in his 3rd year at Auburn. My daughter, Celia, has just graduated from high school and plans to go to Andrew Junior College in September."

We look backward

We extend our deepest sympathy to BESSIE (TAPPAN) FARRIS whose husband died suddenly on May 25th. Alton S. Farris was former president of the Atlanta Automobile Dealers' Association, a member of the official board and finance commission of the Grace Methodist Church, and chairman of the Optimists Club's scholarship fund.

From IRENE (BRINSON) MUNRO: "I am associate Professor at Huntington College. My husband died this past January. My son is married and has one daughter. He is in graduate school at Ann Arbor, Mich., in the field of Economics. He has a National Defense Scholarship and is candidate for a Ph.D."

SUE (TANNER) McKENZIE, of Atlanta, is the proud grandmother of James Bailey Magruder, born to her daughter, Susan Ann, and Dr. G. Brock Magruder, ophthalmologist, in Orlando, Fla.

Sympathy is extended to KATHERINE (CLECKLER) ARNOLD, BRUCE (CLECKLER) FLANDERS, 1922, and AMY (CLECKLER) LOUITTIT, 1936, in the death of their father in June 1963. The Rev. Richard Cox Cleckler, ninety, was retired from the ministry in 1942.

From LOIS (LINDER) FLEMING: "We are happy to have our son, Charles, and his family near us in Columbia, S. C., where he is employed by Clemson College. Granddaughter Ann is in the second grade and I hope in about ten years she can attend Wesleyan. Bill is in kindergarten and Clemson-bound."

News sent by ANNIE LOIS (STOWE) FLEMING: MARIE (BUXTON) WALL's husband, David, died recently in Savannah. LEUNA (BASKIN) WOOD also lost her husband recently.

LUCIE (MORLEY) MOORE gave a lovely lunch in June at her home in Decatur for a small group of old Wesleyan. Present were MARY (QUILLAN) POOLE, MOZELLE TUMLIN and her sister WINIFRED, and I.

Mozelle and LOLA (LIDDELL) MILAM are planning a trip, and WILLIE MAE LITTLE is already in Europe. MARTHA (KING) JOHNSON and I attended the lovely wedding on June 29th in Waycross of FRANCES (HOLDEN) MORRISON's daughter.

I am able to be on the go again after four months in the hospital and two more in a brace recovering from an automobile accident last September.

'14

ALBERTO (DENTON) MARSHALL, pianist and composer, has composed an Atlanta song, "Chimes Play in Atlanta" which is being copyrighted and published. This song has been put in the Atlanta Public Library and its branches, and Alberto has played it in various programs.

'10

HAZEL (WILLIS) BIRCH and her husband, John, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on June 25th. The family party was held at the Macon home of their son, Willis, and included their daughter, HAZEL (BIRCH) HARRISON—1937—and their six grandchildren.

'08

Prescott Cary, Jr., grandson of HATTIE (SUIBERS) RAHN, has been made Field Representative for Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and is being sent to the Phillipines. She hopes to visit Tokyo, Hong Kong, and perhaps, India.

'07

Deepest sympathy is extended to TATUM (POPE) HAPP on the loss of her husband, Lee M. Happ, distinguished civic leader of Macon, in August.

'05

WOODIE (SCHLEY) CAMPBELL's granddaughter, Lucile Campbell, who is 15, is quite an athlete in high school. She won first place in a swimming meet in Charlotte, N. C., and came second in the Carolina Olympic Meet.

1891

Classmates and friends of MARY (NICHOLSON) AINSWORTH, A.B., were sorry to learn of the accident in which she broke her hip in the late summer. She is recuperating at Pineworth Hospital, Macon.

YOUR EDITOR SPEAKS

What's new at Wesleyan? We, to speak editorially.

New are we in the Editor's Chair, but old in interest and devotion to Wesleyan, part of that continuing stream of alumnae love and loyalty. We thrill at progress, built on the past; we pledge to help push forward.

The format of your magazine is new. Do you like it? Do you have ideas, suggestions? Do you have any news? We thank you for your response and hope the next issue, in February, will contain your items.

We hope each issue will interest and challenge you; will help you to realize that you are college women still growing intellectually; will keep you alert to the ever-widening scope of Wesleyan College.

Your Editor is deeply grateful to the Alumnae Office Staff and other college folk for helping with this issue, and to all of you who sent letters of good wishes. Keep in touch!

Yours for Wesleyan,

Freda K. Nadler, Editor
